Joe Doakes has a big day ahead of him tomorrow. He has a lot of building to do, a lot of arguing and planning and sweating—a lot of plain hard work. Joe's in for a tough struggle.

But he has what it takes, Joe has—the dreams, the courage, the ingenuity with which to build; the four cornerstones of freedom, equality, intelligence, and faith on which to lay the foundations of his work; the fighting heart and honest desire to see it through. He won't ride a white charger, or brandish a sharp, shining sword—no, Joe will walk in old, scuffed shoes; and he'll be smiling.

When the going gets tough, when his feet hurt and his bones are tired, Joe's going to straighten up a bit.

He will look around him at all the fine things he's done and those that we've done before him; then he'll pitch right into work again, feeling mighty proud.

Prejudice and hate can't get Joe down. The Doakes blood in him has fighting ancestry that refuses to pick on the underdog or give way to unfounded animosity. His prejudices will be against ignorance, and his hatred will be against wrong.

Joe won't be alone. There are lots of Joes like him, ordinary fellows and their women, who dream dreams and make plans and believe in the future. They will walk beside Joe, members of an All-American team playing in the big leagues.

Joe Doakes has a big day ahead of him tomorrow, but he's ready. Aren't you, Joe?

A. C. HAMPTON

Keeping a school system the size of Astoria's running on an even keel during a period when "Win the War" and "Win the Peace" plans are gripping the hearts of the people is no mean job. It has been Superintendent Hampton's policy to keep an active look-out to determine the relation of public education to the present world pattern. He has encouraged an intelligent and purposeful emphasis on and an introduction of those activities that teach, not for the present only but for the future as well, those ideals, kinds of information, and skills necessary to maintain and promote a democracy for which our erstwhile students are fighting, and in many cases are paying the supreme price.

In addition to his school duties, Superintendent Hampton has been very active in the various civic organizations, ever ready to do his part toward promoting any endeavor which has for its purpose the welfare of Astoria's boys and girls, as well as her adults, in this complex period.

E. D. TOWLER

Confronted with a rationing program, Bond Drives, paper Drives, Service Examinations, the final details of a building program, and allocating rooms and equipment to the various departments, Mr. Towler found the period from September to May full of challenges to his ever ready willingness to cope with problems

It was not until mid year that all class rooms and the office were permanently settled, the basement of the main building and the annex having housed the students on the opening of school. The latest touch to be added to a building newly finished in maple floors and wood work, was an intercommunication system.

Zealously Mr. Towler kept a program functioning to meet the needs of the civilian minded and the draftee conscious. Frequent adjustments were made to harmonize the class room schedules with those of the defense classes and with the hours of those inclined toward vocational jobs.

STRATEGISTS » »

High schools are a vital spoke in the nation's war effort. The Astoria High faculty has had a big job providing fundamental training to future service men and women, preparing girls to step into men's positions, and keeping the lamp of democracy burning

The teachers have helped the students to realize that the high school is a place to accomplish a job and that a task well done on the school front is very much a part of the war effort.

Among the war-provoked courses was compulsory physical fitness training for boys and gives under the instruction of Coach Bowers and Miss Branthover, physical education instructors. Miss Branthover, a graduate of Astoria High School attended the University of Oregon and tought two years in Pendleton. Mr. Bowers, a graduate of Dakota State College, taught in Helix, Oregon and Arlington, Oregon, before coming to Astoria.

The commercial teachers, Miss Lamb, department head, Miss McCann, and Miss Friedrich, train girls for meeting the calls of the civil services and armed forces for trained women in place of men.

The teachers of science have had a tremendous job before them in providing for students the knowledge that will later be of such importance to them in civilian life and in the armed forces. Teaching physics, chemistry, and aeronautics, Mr. Thompson had a full schedule. Miss Doty, a new addition to the faculty, taught biology and physiology. Miss Doty is a graduate of Oregon State College.

Into the lives of all boys and girls has come the realization of the importance of mathematics. Miss Wootton's and Miss Ogden's classes were filled to their capacity, and they redoubled their efforts to prepare their students for advanced training future services, and for the mathematical problems of today.

Education by practical application has been the keynote for home economics. Sewing cooking and home management are only a few examples of this type of course taught by the home economics teacher. Mrs. Dickerson

During the year, many Astoria students enrolled in one of the four defense classes at the Old Faithful cannery. The four classes given were electricity, welding, diesel and radio. A full year's credit was given toward graduation for one half year's work.

Drawing, shop, industrial relations and vocation were taught by Mr. Cox. The Vocational Club, advised by Mr. Cox. permitted students to hold jobs during school time and receive credits by making two reports a week on their jobs.

To all boys and girls has come an intensified appreciation of the use-fulness of English Effective communication oral and written, has been the basic concern in all English classes. One of the three parts of the navy V-12 Test given to senior boys during the year tested their knowledge of words. The English teachers, Miss Curry department head. Miss Branthover, Miss Friedrich, Miss Allen and Mrs. Dickerson, strove to prepare their students for the situations that meet one today.

The "Good Neighbor" policy was the keynote in Miss Bergman's Spanish and Latin classes.

In the social science department the questions of the day and problems pertinent to the United States were given a thorough going-over. Heated debates arose in Miss Crouter's history classes. In any one of the social probems classes, taught by Mr. Phippeny, Miss Wilsie, and Miss Bergman, one clued listen to reports on the problems of today or view the students' projects. Delving into the mysteries of genes and inherited characteristics went Miss Willsie's sociology class.

A plan was worked out by the teachers and principal which permitted limited social functions to continue as moral builders. The teachers and principal of Astoria High School have held high the burning lamp of democracy.

GUARDIANS OF DEMOCRACY

Student Counce which plans the artivities and outlines the policies for the school year Mr. Towler is the high counce, with the students headed by the student body press. Har Id O a Completing the counce were the other student body officers. East vice president. Wesley Anderson, second vice president Earl Fedle, third vice president, Dick Buma a, secretary. Grace Elaine Guihaugen, treasurer. Phy is Atwood and athletic manager, John Verschueren. These Student Body officers have successfully carried at their duties and have been privileged to be the ruling council over a student body housed in a new building.

Since the reconstruction of the school building the student council has had an excelent meeting place in Mr. Towler's inner office. There, in an atmosphere made businesslike by appropriate furniture, many important matters were discussed from amendments to the Constitution to the advisability of breaking worm out traditions.

Besides controlling student activities the Student Council has the responsibility of overseeing the financial status of the entire student body including the billis made by individual clubs.

Through exercise of their power—to provide assemblies, to guard the constitution its encourage student activities—the council is getting a taste of the functions of a representative body in a democracy

Senior Class The Class of 44 witnessed the changing of many high school traditions coused by both the war and the fire in 1943. As Sophomores, they succeeded in sponsoring a big hop, and in winning a Yell-contest

succeeded in sponsoring a big hop, and in winning a Yell-contest against the upper classmen

During their role as Juniors the fire struck, along with the war; so they bade forewell to tradition and sponsored a Bond and Tin Can Drive. Miss Crounter, inspirational Junior adviser, organized a 100% club, composed of every Junior member, and also a group of twelve Junior Commandos, who enthusiastically canvassed the business section of the town. At the end of the two drives, they sent in six truckloads of cans and $62,000, which bought 62,000 more fighting jeeps for Uncle Sam's Army.

As Seniors, one hundred and thirty strong, they displayed to the townspeople of Astoria a surprising array of talent for acting, in the hilarious comedy, "Best Foot Forward" The Senior Ball, with beautiful decorations in accordance with its theme, "Leap Year," was a gala evening

As the members of the class of '44 stand in their blue caps and gowns on graduation evening, they can be proud of their three years' achievement, and they will look forward to tackling Post War America with a will to achieve and progress.

Junior Class

From their Sophomore Hop to the end of their big War Band Drive the Junior class of '44 has been an outstanding group. As Sophomores they made the school take notice of them when they caught up with and almost passed the Juniors in the race for the selling of War Bonds

Again this year they jumped right into activity by sponsoring a big War Bond Drive that continued throughout the year. Miss Crouter, Junior adviser, organized a 100% Club, whereby every Junior member who sold at least one bond had his name inked on a chart For those who were not content to sell merely one bond, a "ladder" was erected. The lowest rung that could be stepped on was worth $375 worth of bonds, but many Juniors kept climbing right to the too. The spirit of the Junior Bond Drive was soon felt by the whole school, and before the Drive was over all the classes were backing it But putting across a Bond Drive didn't use up the energy of this class

The Juniors then turned to the show business, where again they proved themselves a capable group. Their play, a super spine-childer mystery, was viewed with evident satisfaction by all Astoria. The traditional Junior Prom with its beautiful decorations proved that much hard work and elaborate planning had gone into it

GREMLINS, EVACUATE

Continuing their traditional activities and introducing new ones, the Deba Drams were kept active under the leadership of their president, Donna Mattson. A highlight of the fail term was the traditional amateur hour, matched during the spring term by a novel quiz show. To aid the national campaign to put the idle copper pennies into circulation, the DiD is held a penny drive. Student participation in the war was measured by the Deba Dram's survey conducted to show the variety of war activities entered into during the year.

The Library Club assumed the responsibility of helping to equip the newly organized library. Responding to an appeal for paper sallyage, the Club sponsored a drive it resulted in the collection of approximately fifteen tons of paper which netted them $155.49. The money was used to purchase drapery. In a library which is now conductive to genuine concentration, the club members helped to keep in circulation, the latest reference material and timely books in Past War conditions and planning so that AHS students kept abreast of the problems of the present and the future.

Handicopped by the lack of a meeting place the Girls' League inevertheless, during the year, provided interesting and timely assembles featuring the appearances of a member of each of the women's services. They gave short talks to the girls on life in the branches of the services. In addition to the traditional Sophomore We come Party and a Christmas tree the Girls' League originated a project to raise funds for the Dean's room supplies by selling nences. The motivating power behind the Girls' League is the cabinet red by President Trene Sutkowski

SUPER VITAMIN POWER

High-spirited and enthus astic is the Pep Club. Through their pep and I valty they urged the Fishermen on to many victories. Good Salesmanship was a major factor in their successful sales of pip, apples and candy at the games. Led by President Rumonr Guihaugen and supervised by Miss Woutton and Miss Branthover, who took over the guidance by the club affairs during Miss Woutton's itiness, the Pep Club has been active in a list. Factor ties, especially athletics, Highlighting the year's activities are the traditional football and basketbali banquets and the original Hard Time Leap Year Dance. This year the membership has been increased to fitteen instead of the usual twelve. From now on candidates, who must be juniors will be rated on grades pep, will nighess, and cooperation. Through their well directed efforts the girls belonging to the Pep Club are being taught the values of cooperation and good sportsmanship.

Policing the games operating the scoreboards, and caring for the public address system have been the responsibility of the Hi Knights, who are under the readership it a new supervisor, Mr. Phippeney Organized in 1924, the club has spent its energies in seeing that everything runs smoothly at our football and nur basketball games. Bit Kearney, this year's president, with his able assistants invice president, Phillip Biair, secretary treasurer. But Kendall and sergeant at arms. Ronald Trenholm, has done a good jib in supporting the athletic activities of the Fishermen. The club is made up of thirteen boys with eligibility bused on a Glaverage, their cooperation and their will inghess to serve the school.

BOMBS AWAY

To create, maintain, and extend through-out the school and community high standards of Christian character is the purpose of the Alpha chapter of the Hi-Y. At school games, members carried out their traditional activity of taking tickets. Outstanding activity of the year was their annual sock dance President Dick Thompson was assisted by Jimmy Parker vice president, Paul Romppanen, secretary, and Louis Bowerman, treasurer Adviser, Mr. Thompson, has served sixteen of the twenty-two years of the club's existence

The Hi-Y Club has a unique induction ceremony. New and old members group around a table upon which is a large triangle. The triangle is perforated and in each hole stands a candle. On one side of the triangle is a white candle, the symbol of purity; and on the other side, a red candle, symbol of service and sacr fice in a darkened room with only two candles burning, the old members light their candles. Then the neophytes, having repeated with the president the purpose of the club, light their candles, receive their pins, and join the old members in one big circle, where they are welcomed as regulars

The Hi-Y pin consists of a white cross surrounded by a red triangle. The white cross stands for purity the red triangle for red blanded service, and for growth in body, mind, and spirit

The name "Hi-Y," represents a movement of high school youth committed to a Christian purpose at work in the high school and in the community. The oldest Hi-Y club with an unbroken record was organized tity-three years ago in Chapman, Kansas. At the present there are over 6,750 Hi-Y clubs in the United States and its territories and in Canada, with an approximate enrollment of 200,000 members.

The Beta chapter of the Hi-Y has been inactive this year because of the loss of their leader. Glenn Burch. The organization hopes to get a new leader so that they may resume their activities in the high school next year.

BLOCK BUSTERS

Fifty G.A.A.'s embark on their summer vacation, leaving behind them a long year, full of activity and good times. The G.A.A.'s were taken over this year by Miss Gertrude Branthover, new Physical Ed instructor, who was aided in her work by Rumohr Gulhaugen, president; Naomi Lokan, vice president; Harriette Gustafson, secretary, and Irene Williams, treasurer In addition to their regular sports—volleyball, badminton, table tennis, basketball, tumbling, and others—the G.A.A.'s honored the Sophomore neophytes with several parties in the gym. Rollicking fun was had at a slumber party in the Community Hall, at which new officers were installed and neophytes initiated and awarded their numerals. But the G.A.A. is not all parties and games—they sold apples in the home rooms at noon, and ais, had an important part in the Gym Exhibition in the spring. Learning to cooperate with others and to play games fairly has made these girls ready for our future America

The important-looking gentlemen that you see here, wearing their navy blue sweaters and their big yellow letters, are known as the "A" Club of Astoria High. This year twenty-one boys worked hard to achieve the honor of wearing the coveted "A." Elected to lead the boys were Wes Anderson, president; Jim Parker, vice president; Bob Kearney, secretary-treasurer, and Dick Niemi, sergeant-at-arms. Bill Bowers, new AHS coach, has been their adviser. The "A" Coub went to work this year and put out basketball programs to sell at every major game. These boys are handy at keeping order around the school and at games, they also manage to rouse the boys, through various drastic methods, to support the team in yells

HOME FRONT

N w as never before. Home Economics assumes Post War responsibility preparing our girls of today to take over the homes of tomorrow. For nineteen years, the Home Ec Club has progressed with new ways of meeting tam i ar problems of housekeeping. This year, the thirty members, under the presidency of Nadine McMillan, assisted by vice president, Dor's Lindstrom secretary. Beverly Hughes, and treasurer. Mariys Niemi, have been working with the war effort in the Greek Reliet Drive. This means collecting aid clothing from students and townspeciple, sorting, mending, and cleaning them to be sent overseas. Every year, the club directed by Mrs. Dickers in buys algorithm will be of use to the next year's members. The girls also put on an annual spring picnic.

For training boys and girls to be able to take their places in the world after finishing school? is the ourpose of the 1944 Vicational Crub, including thirteen girls and fifteen boys. Their part in the work of this war has been if a more serious nature. They are going to receive men who are needed a sewhere — n active service, or in more specialized lobs. Here is where girls are proving their ability to step in and take the place of men at a defense job. These girls work right alongs de the boys in learning their work, and they intend to continue in this work when they graduate. One activity of the club members is keeping scores at foot ball games. All activities are supervised by the president, Russell Hansen, vice president, Richard Jackson, and secretary treasurer a milkings. Mr. W. W. Cox advises them on all things. The school has called on the services of these members for many odd jobs of car pentry, such as the important repairing of lockers damaged by the fire in 1942.

MISSION FULFILLED

As another year rolls by, the Tri Y members can look back upon a complete and success ful one. Harriette Gustafson capably filled the presidency, while Sue Allen ivice president. Jeannette Larson, secretary, Marjorie Lundell, treasurer, and Mrs. Logue and Mrs. Friedrich, advisers, assisted her. One of the outstanding artivities of the club was the ipening of the Billie Room, a located in the basement of the Y W C A. Decorations include blue paint, white stars, and blue rain to carry out the theme. A regular coke bar was installed and music for dancing was made available by a phonograph. Also for entertainment was ping pong. The members held their annual Tri Y print and cord dance and made Christmas tax is for hospitalized servicemen. Each year a beautiful candle ght recognition service is held when the girls are officially accepted into the club. Thirty nine new members were recognized this year. Any high school student who attends three meetings is eligible for membership.

Comprising the cream of the crip the thirty-four honor students at Astoria High School gathered into an effective organization under the leadership of prexy, Grace Elaine Gul haugen. It is interesting to note that in neteen out of these thirty four members are seniors. A though not a service club, the Torch Honor participated in the school carniva on Apr. 21. They have taken their most important part in school functions by being an example to other students, examples which will be a credit to the service organizations for men and women of the United States. They will play an extensive part in the tuture as leaders to peace security, and happiness. Other officers are vice president. Priscilla Berry secretary. Jovce Kieger, and treasurer, Nancy Johnson. Their adviser is Miss McCann.

ASSIGNMENT IN FREEDOM

Exching the late editions rushed through the presses, Editor Carol Murdock and Assistant Editional th Seebing, Advertising Manager Grace Elaine Gulhaugen and Business Manager Harriette Gustafson, and a world weary Astor Post staff put the fina 130" on the year's work and proceeded to drown their screows in printers' inklimith Advisers Miss Curry and Miss Friedrich leading the way

For the tirst time in the career of the Astor Post, a journalism class granting credits was irganized to carry the burden of the paper and to provide instruction in newspaper work be tween deadlines.

This year sistaff accomplished a complete is chedule of issues despite paper shortages, lack of manpower at the Budget and a drain of afterschool work on prospective reporters. Annual Astor Plist dance profits sliced the paper's debt by one-fourth with the remainder being pared away by the diligent advertising and business staffs. Better advise of block cuts, and layout experimentations highlighted this year's paper.

IN ANOTHER THEATER

1944 marked the second time in the history of A.H.S. senior classes that their play has been presented in the Viking theater

Under Miss Bergman, this year's business staff organized itself into committees to promote publicity, ticket sales, and general business management. Much credit goes to Vernon Koski, Betty Ann Pajunen, and Betty Reese for their pisters advertising the play. Net profits of the play amounted to $185.18

Business details and advertising campaigns functioned smoothly for the juniors, under the direction of Miss Wootton, advertising adviser, and Miss Friedrich business adviser and the wirk of special committees. The advertising committee, under the management of Ronald Trenholm, made announcements and boosted ticket sales in general. Gloria Engbretson, with the help of the business committee, handled ticket sales and ushering Judith Seeborg was play prompter and Riger Brooks undertook the duties of electrician. Approximately $205.00 was made, savoring of the profits netted in pre-depression days

SENIOR PLAY

Combining a love-sick schoolboy, a glamorous movie star, and the fury of a woman scarned, "Best Foot Forward," presented by the Senior class, stepped right off the deep end into a plot more complicated than a 1944 income tax blank. Bud Hooper, in a triangle of his own making and threatened with expulsion from school by the principal of Winsocki Prep, led the seventeen characters of the play from one hilarious situation to another, including free use of the fire-escape window and a touch of romantic blackmail.

JUNIOR PLAY

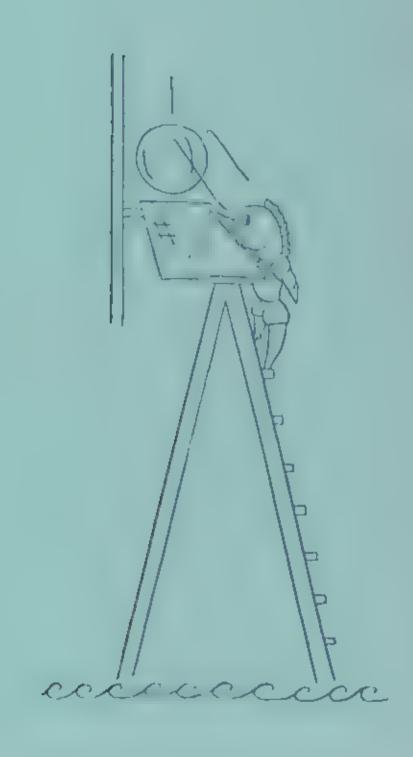

Scalp-crawling as a G.I. haircut, the Junior play, "Reserve Two for Murder," had even the Juniors chewing their fingernails between laughs Involving the entire audience and including a play within a play, a vanishing corpse that reappeared in the rear of the theater, a case of poison, a spy ring, and more screams than a Sinatra broadcast, the plot left the stage and moved up and down the aisles at will, giving the spectators enough chills to run a freezing unit.

H. W. BOWERS

Coach Bill Bowers, a newcomer to Astoria High School, is a graduate of North Dakota State College, Before coming to Astoria, Bowers coached at Griswald Union High School, Helix, Oregon, and at Arlington High, Arlington, Oregon, with considerable success. When he stepped into the shoes of basketball coach, Wally Palmberg, and into those of football coach, Norville May, left vacant when they resigned to serve their country in the United States Navy, Bowers accepted one of the most enviable positions in the state, that of coaching Astoria's Fighting Fishermen. This year in accordance with the Army and Navy physical fitness program, Coach Bowers worked hard to give his students good strong bodies, both in football and basketball practices and in his strenuous physical education classes. In addition to his regular coaching duties, "Bill," as the students call him, was kept busy teaching business arithmetic and acting in the capacity of adviser to the "A" Club

GUNG HO!

When Astoria's Fighting Football Team finished the '43 season, the records showed that they had five defeats and two ties. But the records do not tell the whole story; it was a season of close hard-fought games with heart-breaking last minute stands by the opposing teams that tipped the scales to their side.

In its first game Astoria was held by Ilwaco to a 0 to 0 tie in a game which saw one Ast ria touchd win disqual tied. Astoria's only real beating came in its second game, which was with Milwauk e. The Marcoins steam-rollered Astoria 27 to 2.

The Tillamook Cheesemakers were victors over Astoria 12 to 6 in a game in which a final drive by Astoria was halted at the three-yard line by the final gun

The Fishermen's second tie came in The Dalles game when the Astorians mustered their power and held The Dalles in a 7 to 7 deadlock

Salem's Vikings grabbed a 12 to 0 win over Astoria in a contest in which the Purp e and Go d team had many scoring apportunities, but lacked the final punch to make them good.

In a second game with Tillamook Astoria definitely out-played the Cheesemakers in view of vardage goined but failed in a conversion for an extra point, and the game ended Tillamook 14, Astoria 13

In the final game of Astoria's football season the Blue Dragons of Hood River set the curtain with a 12 to 7 win.

CAPTAIN LEO HILL, Senior, end---finished his high school football as one of Astoria's best all-round players.

JIM PARKER, Senior, half—carried the brunt of the offensive playing. Worked hard on defensive

DICK NIEMI, Senior, guard-began season in line, later shifted to blocking back.

WES ANDERSON, Senior, center-injured early in the season-saw very little play

JACK SAMUELSON, Senior, center-steady reliable player. Outstanding on defense where he backed line.

HAROLD OJA, Senior, tackle-rugged mainstay of line. Fine blacking on defense

LARS GJOVICK, Senior, guard—set pace for rest of line with his hard-driving power.

WALLACE MERILLA, Senior, end-completed many passes for much yardage gain

JOHN KUSTURA, Senior, guard—started in the backfield, but was shifted to line and proved to be a great credit.

GERALD LOKAN, Senior, tockle—out most of the season with an injury but returned to play great football.

RODDY KVISTAD, Senior, end-reliable alternate, capable of filling position at anytime.

HOWARD ANDERSON, Senior, tackle-steady reserve, filled position admirably when needed.

GLENN MATTSON, Senior, half-another capable reserve. Fine open field runner.

BOB FRAME, Juniar, half-fost and tough as a blocker and pass flinger.

DICK BUMALA, Soph, quarter-broke through line for many gains.

ELDON KORPELA, Junior, half—amused spectators with clever shifty broken-field running. Will make good next year.

EARL FEDJE, Junior, full—exceptionally good on pass defense with many interceptions to his credit

CHARLES BERGMAN, Junior, tockle-fine defensive blocker-mode line hold.

BOB KEARNEY, Junior, tackle—gave that extra drive that made large holes in opponent's line.

RONALD TRENHOLM, Junior, guard-excelent for breaking through opponent's line

JOHN FOSTER, Junior, end-showed great spirit and ability in his first year on the squad

BOB HAGRUP, Soph, guard—fine job of charging through opposing forward wall.

DONALD HOGG, Junior, guard—"Piggie" was in there pitching and showed great drive even at the blackest moments.

Thunderbolts

- DON NOPSON, Senior—tallest member of the team; his 6' 2" aided greatly in recovering the ball from the back-board and pushing in rebounds
- LEO HILL, Senior—one of the finest ball-handers for many years. The draft took him before he was able to participate in district tournament
- JIM PARKER, Seniar—spark plug of the team, received position on district five's all star team, led scaring for the season
- RODDY KVISTAD, Senior—although he had very little experience, he made the first five and made a great showing as a "dead eye" on one-handed shorts.
- WALLY MERRILA, Senior—reserve for most of the season, took Hill's position when he enter ed the Novy. Did on enviable job
- CHARLES BERGMAN, Junior a good steady player who did his job well wherever he was needed in the game
- ART HILTON, Junior-played good ball on both defensive and offensive
- HOWARD LOVVOLD, Sophomore—anly sophomore to make the first five. Has two more years of play before him. A brilliant future is predicted
- DICK BUMALA, Sophomore—was a little green at the beginning of the season but showed great improvement as season progressed
- MANAGER, JOHN VERSCHUEREN, Senior—took care of everything concerning the playing and the players

THE INVASION » »

When the last echos of the football season drifted across Gyro Field, Astoria's Fighting Fishermen shifted their attention to the game in which they shine the brightest---basketball. And shine they did---at the end of the season the Astorians had 19 wins to their credit and only 5 losses, none of the losses being by more than five points. The only barrier between Astoria and a chance at the State Tourney in Salem was one point which St. Helens managed to grab in the closing seconds of the District Five Championship game in the U.S.O. Pavilion.

When Coach Bowers began to build up Astoria's basketball machine, he found he had only three men, Don Nopson, Leo Hill, and Jim Parker, who had had any first string experience whatsoever. All three were reserves on last year's teams. Wally Merila, Art Hilton, and Roddy Kvistad had had some experience on the Jayvee team. Also turning out were Howard Lovvold, Charles Bergman, and Dick Bumula, none of whom had any high school basketball to their favor

From this relatively "green" selection Bowers whipped up a team. The boys got off to a good start. They won the first game 24 to 17 over Naselle and trounced Knappa Swensen in the next two games with almost identical scores 33 to 24 and 26 to 23. The Cheesemakers of Tillomook went down in defeat 33 to 25. Then Astoria blitzed a Warrenton quintet 37 to 16.

Astoria's first defeat was to an underdog Seaside team, 35 to 34, the winning free throw being made in the last 16 seconds. The Fighting Finns then made it two straight, winning Milwaukee 27 to 19 and 23 to 22. Astoria again walloped Naselle, 36 to 19. The Fishers were bounced by Hood River, 25 to 30 but bounced right back again to win The Dalles 37 to 15 A revengeful Astoria team knocked over Seaside 43 to 27. Tillamook again went down in defeat 37 to 23. The powerful St. Helens bowed to the Fishermen 32 to 25.

In another hard-fought game Astoria downed Rainier 41 to 37. Astoria suffered two heart-breakers to Salem 32 to 35 and 25 to 30. Rainier was defeated 28 to 25. The Fishermen made up for their early defeat to Hood River by winning 28 to 25 and 40 to 20. Ilwaco was white washed 36 to 17. The final game of the season was an omen of things to come in the District Five Tournament when St. Helens won 17 to 22

Beginning the Tourney the Astorians hit Vernonia 49 to 21. It took two overtime periods to eke out a 17 to 16 win over Rainier. St. Helens gave Astoria its first Tournament defeat 24 to 22. In a close game Astoria nosed out Tillamook 24 to 22

Astoria met St. Helens in the championship game of the Tournament. The Fishermen led with less than a minute to go, but St. Helens got the ball for the necessary two points to win 19 to 20.

Although they are one of the few Astoria teams not to be present at the State tournament they will be long remembered in the annals of Astoria's brilliant basketball history.
